

Our Plans for the Art & Design Centre

What are we doing?

We are building a fantastic new Art & Design Centre to house art and all the technologies under one roof. It will be on the site of the current Rouse building and will be a stunning two tier building, created primarily from glass, timber and steel.

Why are we doing it?

- We need to bring all our technologies together so that more interdisciplinary work can occur between art, textiles, food and 3D materials design.
- We can enhance our creative output by providing four large bright new art studios with print areas and all appropriate functional features.
- A new study room with extensive library will inspire students.
- There will be much more space for our pupils to show their work to the school and the community, with two new airy galleries and a balcony with retractable covers.
- There will be more space to introduce new areas into the curriculum, such as ceramics, in order to develop our pupils' artistic skills even further.

Please help

Nurturing our pupils' creativity has always been a drive focus for Westholme. Our work has been outstanding, seen in venues such as The Royal Hospital, King George's Hall and Blackburn Cathedral.

This new challenging project of a new design centre will really allow us to focus on enhancing the appeal of all arts and crafts, and the abilities of our pupils will thrive as they become thoroughly stimulated by their environment.

It is our most exciting project since the Theatre and we would love you to consider helping us achieve it.
